

VERY IMPORTANT: READ CAREFULLY INSTRUCTIONS

Dear Users,

We would like to present here a few instructions for filling out the Export Control forms necessary with each request for software, originating from the RSICC, released to the NEA Databank within the co-operative arrangement with the US DOE, signed on 10 April 2006.

All three of the Export Control forms are obligatory; thus, without each of them correctly filled out, no software request will be processed.

- The first page (1/3) must be filled out by the end user of the software. The end user's information must be filled out completely; in particular, any and all citizenships that the end user may hold must be mentioned, as well as the end user's country of residence. Also the intentions for use of the software must be concisely described in English.
- The second page (2/3) likewise must be filled out by the end user, notably with the end user's signature only appearing at the bottom of the form.
- The third page (3/3) has two portions. The top portion must be filled out and once again signed by the end user. The bottom portion is to be filled out and signed by the liaison officer. In the case where an establishment has no nominated liaison officer, the end user's project supervisor may fill out the bottom portion and sign.

If the liaison officer of an establishment wishes to request a software package(s) for him or herself, that liaison officer must fill out all three pages, including the two portions of page 3.

If the liaison officer wishes to request a software package(s) for one or more end users in his or her establishment, the liaison officer must have each end user fill out all three forms. And then the liaison officer must fill out the bottom portion of page 3 before sending the request(s) to the NEA Databank.

Please note that these software packages are export-controlled under U. S. government regulations and issued under a single user license for a single site. They are for the registered user only. Access by anyone other than that specific user is strictly prohibited. If other colleagues are interested in using the software, each one must register and request his/her own copy. Copies sent by the NEA Databank cannot be shared.

Return the completed 3 forms by post, fax or e-mail to:

Software Export Control Understanding and Agreement
Relative to packages released by the Radiation Safety Information Computational Center (RSICC)

As a subscriber of the RSICC Software identified below, under the proper execution of the applicable Software license agreement, you acknowledge and agree to abide by all applicable United States Export Control Laws and Regulations and Policies stated herein.

Specifically, the identified software has been classified under the United States Department of Commerce Title 15 Commerce and Foreign Trade, Chapter VII B Bureau of Export Administration, Parts 730 through 774, Commerce Control List as OD999 Specific Software. For reference to the Commerce Regulations and the Additional Requirements below, please refer to:

http://www.access.gpo.gov/bis/ear/ear_data.html.

License Requirements:

The reasons for control are Antiterrorism (AT) and Regional Stability (RS). AT and RS apply to entire entry. A license is required for items controlled by this entry to North Korea and Iraq for antiterrorism reasons. The Commerce Country Chart is not designed to determine AT licensing requirements for this entry. See Part 742.19 for additional information.

Items: a) Software for neutronic calculations/modeling;
 b) Software for radiation transport calculations/modeling;
 c) Software for hydrodynamic calculations/modeling.

Additional Requirements:

The representations and certifications in the RSICC Registration Form, Software/Data Order Form are true, accurate and complete.

The subscriber also agrees to review the following lists and agrees not to allow direct or indirect access to the software identified herein for the following individuals, organizations and parties. The links provided below (maintained by parties outside of RSICC's control and subject to change) are provided as a convenience to the subscriber. Your obligation is to check the actual list.
